

Coalitions in Repeated Games

Ce Liu

Abstract :

This paper develops a framework and solution concept for repeated interaction in which both individuals and coalitions may act. No party can commit to long-run behavior and each anticipates that behavior today influences continuation play. Across a range of settings, we evaluate the degree to which history-dependence deters individual and coalitional deviations